STN[®] Price List

Effective January 1, 2012

STN International, the premium trademark for international patent and research information, combines all important patent and other relevant databases from science and technology from the most renowned producers on one platform. Only STN offers the Derwent World Patents Index (DWPISM), CAPlusSM/ CAS REGISTRYSM and INPADOCDB/ INPAFAMDB databases on a single platform. There are nearly 180 databases with more than 900 million records available. The thoroughly edited databases can be searched using a sophisticated, entirely transparent retrieval system which allows for text searches, factual searches, and chemical structure and biosequence searches. Since patenting gene and protein sequences has become increasingly important with pharma and biotech companies involved in research, STN offers the largest publicly available collection of biosequence data from patent literature and journals published all over the world.

A team of indexers adds value to the primary information contained in the databases by adding controlled vocabulary (Thesaurus terms) and classifications, and by writing new or correcting existing abstracts. This results in more precise and concise search results. STN continuously makes sure that quality standards are met. Newly loaded data are regularly checked and the entire data pool is checked for accuracy. Detected errors are corrected in close collaboration with the database producers.

STN International is jointly operated by FIZ Karlsruhe (Europe) and Chemical Abstracts Service (CAS), Columbus, Ohio (USA) worldwide and is represented in Japan by The Japan Association for International Chemical Information (JAICI), Tokyo.

This price list details pricing for databases available via STN. Functionally similar databases are grouped in three sections:

- Bibliographic databases
- Numeric property databases
- Chemical structure databases

Pricing information for general STN commands and services is also available.
